For all Shell Energy Broadband and Phone customers
Effective 30 August 2023.

Version number: 1.15

Date published: 06/11/2023

Annual Price Changes

When you join Shell Energy Broadband, each April, we may, at our discretion, adjust the price of all your charges (including your price plan charges) by the Consumer Price Index (CPI) rate of inflation which is published by the Office for National Statistics in January of each year except where the CPI figure is negative. We will then add up to 3%. For example, if you're paying £20 a month, and the January CPI figure is 2%, we may apply an increase of up to 5%. At 5%, your monthly price would increase to £21 after 1 April.

If, however, the January CPI figure is -2%, we may apply an increase of up to 3%. At 3%, your monthly price would increase to £20.60 after 1 April. For details, see our Annual CPI Price Increase Guide.

Prices (as well as any other terms) might also change for other reasons at any time whilst you're with us. We'll usually provide you with at least one month's notice before any such changes take place. See shellenergy.co.uk/broadband-terms for details.

What does this mean for the prices shown in this Price List?

This means the charges shown in this Price List (broadband, line rental, call plans, features and some call charges) may be increased each year from April 2023 by the Consumer Price Index rate of inflation which is published in January of each year (except where that CPI figure is negative) together with up to a further 3%.

Price List Rounding

Please note that, for convenience, prices appearing in this Price List are rounded to only two decimal places. Your bill is calculated accurately using the same constituent prices but to 3 decimal places of accuracy. VAT is added to the total before being rounded up or down to 2 decimal places corresponding to whole pence.
